Artists must also complete all sales procedures and settle their earnings and debts before requesting withdrawal.
2. If a user violates their obligations under this Agreement or the policies set by the Company for the operation of the service, or hinders the normal operation of the service, the Company may warn the user, suspend or permanently suspend service use, and take other measures after providing prior notice. If any of the following apply, service use may also be restricted:
 1. If the user is found to have any reason for membership restriction as defined in Article 5.
 2. If the user fails to pay for services or other amounts owed within the deadline.
 3. If the user interferes with others' service use or misappropriates their information, thus threatening the order of e-commerce.

If the Company terminates the contract, and the user's contact information is incorrect and the Company cannot notify the user, the contract will be terminated three days after the Company's notice is posted according to the methods in Article 7. However, if the user restores their rights within three days, their rights will be restored retroactively.

5. If the Company terminates the contract, it may immediately cancel related transactions without notice. If the service fee was paid by credit card, the Company may cancel the credit card transaction. However, if necessary to protect the user, this will not apply.

7. Users who have been subject to service restrictions under this Article may raise objections through the Company's customer service.
8. If a dispute arises over transactions initiated by the user after the termination of the service contract, the user will bear responsibility for resolving the dispute, and the Company will not be held liable unless there is willful misconduct or negligence.

Article 14 (Copyright Ownership and Related to Posts)

1. All copyrights and intellectual property rights in the content created by the Company are owned by the Company.
2. Users may not use information obtained from the Company's services for profit or provide it to third parties without prior approval from the Company, especially in cases where the information is subject to the Company's intellectual property rights.
3. If the Company provides a service that allows users to post content, the copyright for such posts belongs to the user who posted the content.
4. The Company may use users' posts within the service if it is necessary for service improvement, to the extent allowed by the Copyright Act and other relevant laws. Users may request the deletion or privatization of their posts at any time through customer service. If the Company intends to use a user's post beyond this extent, the Company will provide an explanation of the intended use and obtain the user's prior consent.
5. Users agree to grant the Company the rights to their posts, including the right to modify, isolate, or use them for promotional purposes. However, posts containing personal information will be excluded from such use, and any changes made to posts must not harm the original author's intent or reputation.
6. Users may only post content on the Company's platform that does not violate the rights of third parties or break any laws. The user is solely responsible for any civil or criminal liability arising from a violation of these terms.
7. If a user repeatedly violates the Company's copyright policies or posts content prohibited by law, the Company may take measures including but not limited to content deletion, service use restrictions, or contract termination.
8. If a user requests the Company to delete specific content they posted, the Company must immediately delete or make the content private unless there are other legal reasons to preserve it.

Article 17: Establishment of Contract

1. A contract is established simultaneously with the member's purchase.

Additionally, the receipt confirmation notification will include the estimated completion date for the services.

2. Upon receiving the receipt confirmation notification, if the client finds any discrepancies in their expressed intentions, they can immediately request the artist to cancel the purchase. The artist must process this request without delay if it is made before the work has commenced.
3. If the artist has already begun work on the services or has already dispatched the services, the client may request withdrawal of the application to the artist according to Article 28.
4. If the client receives the services, they must request corrections or confirm the purchase through the functions provided by the company (modification request, purchase confirmation function) within 7 days from the date of receipt. However, for content services, there may not be a separate correction request function due to their nature.
5. If no expression of intent regarding purchase confirmation, return, or other reasons for not confirming the purchase is received within the time frame outlined above, the company may automatically proceed with the purchase confirmation process. However, if the client requests a modification within the time frame, the automatic purchase confirmation process will be halted.
6. Once the client confirms the purchase or the automatic purchase confirmation process is underway, the intermediary service will end, making it fundamentally impossible to withdraw the application (cancel the transaction), receive refunds, modify services, or return sales commissions and purchase commissions. The client cannot raise objections against the company. In this case, all issues regarding refunds must be resolved directly with the artist.
7. After the intermediary service has ended, the company will not intervene, so all disputes between the client and the artist must be resolved directly between the parties involved in the transaction.
8. When the client confirms the purchase or the automatic purchase confirmation process is underway, the company will transfer the amount excluding the purchase commission to the artist.
9. The company will not involve itself in any disputes arising among the artist, client, delivery company, and other related parties regarding delivery, nor will it assume any responsibility. In such cases, the relevant parties must resolve the dispute directly.

1. The client must fully verify the service and related information provided by the artist before deciding to make a purchase.
2. The company operates, manages, and provides a system for free transactions of services between the client and the artist as a mail order intermediary, so the client must accurately confirm the detailed content of the services and the transaction conditions written by the artist within the service before making a purchase. The client assumes all losses and damages incurred by failing to verify the contents and conditions of the services before purchase.
3. If the client violates paragraph 2, the company may suspend part or all of the services or unilaterally terminate the service use contract, and in this case, the client will bear responsibility for any resulting damages.
4. The client must comply with these terms and conditions and the contents and usage methods announced by the company on the service screen, and they will be responsible for all losses and damages resulting from violations or non-compliance.
5. If the cause for withdrawal of application occurs for the services purchased, the client must not use the received services arbitrarily or leave them to be damaged, and if the services are damaged, they must bear appropriate costs.
6. When purchasing services, the client must use their own payment method and must not arbitrarily use someone else's payment method. The client will bear all responsibility for any losses or damages incurred to the company, artist, or payment method owner due to the unauthorized use of someone else's payment method. However, using a payment method owned by a business entity to which the client belongs is an exception.
7. The client assumes full responsibility for all issues arising from the information they enter related to the payment of the purchase amount.

Article 25: Use of Services by Clients

1. The company may verify whether the client has legitimate usage rights for the payment method during the payment process and may suspend the transaction or cancel it until the verification is completed.
2. The company manages various facilities and materials to ensure that services are provided safely and checks whether they are used for their intended purpose. If any part of the usage is found to violate the intended purpose, the company may request clarification of the reason and take necessary actions, including canceling the transaction.
3. In the case where a minor purchases services through the site, if the legal representative does not consent to the contract, the minor or the legal representative may cancel the contract.

Article 26: Prohibited Acts

1. Acts where the artist and client transact directly without using the company's provided services (direct payment) are prohibited for transaction safety. In this case, the parties involved in the transaction are responsible for any issues arising from direct payments, and the company will not bear any responsibility for them.
2. Abnormal payment activities, such as financing funds under the guise of selling goods or providing services in violation of laws such as the Specialized Credit Financial Business Act, are prohibited.
3. Engaging in purchasing activities without a genuine intention to buy services, such as those that do not provide actual services, and making abnormal transactions using the company's offered discounts is prohibited.
4. If a user commits prohibited acts as defined in this article, the company may take actions such as recovering some or all of the additional benefits provided to the user, restricting service use, or terminating the service contract.

Article 27: Exemption from Liability of the Company

1. The company shall not be liable for the following matters unless the company or its employees or agents are found to have acted with intent or gross negligence:
 1. The company operates, manages, and provides a system for the free transaction of services between clients and artists as a communications sales intermediary and does not act on behalf of either party. The responsibility for transactions formed between users and the information provided by users lies directly with the respective users.
 2. The company does not provide any warranty or guarantee regarding the contents and transaction conditions of services registered by artists. Therefore, clients must take responsibility for purchasing the services.

3. The company does not guarantee the existence and authenticity of the intention to sell or buy among users, the quality, completeness, stability, legality, or non-infringement of the rights of others of the registered services, and the truthfulness or legality of the materials linked through the information inputted by clients or artists. All associated risks and responsibilities are borne by the respective parties, except in cases where falsehood or illegality is objectively verified.
4. The company is exempt from liability if it cannot provide services due to natural disasters or similar force majeure events.
5. The company is not responsible for any obstacles in service use caused by the user's fault.

Article 28: Termination of the Service Contract

1. If a user no longer wishes to use the service, they may apply for the termination of the service contract at any time, and the company will promptly process it in accordance with relevant laws. However, if the user is deemed to have violated the law or is in dispute with the company or other users, the termination of the contract may be restricted for a considerable period.
2. Users may only terminate the service contract after completing all transactions within the company.
3. A member who has terminated their membership under this article may rejoin as a member according to the membership registration procedures and relevant provisions stipulated in these terms. However, if a member applies for rejoining after termination for the purpose of participating in a restricted event, the company may restrict rejoining for a certain period.
4. If a user terminates the service contract, all data registered by the user, including information and posts, will be deleted immediately, except in cases where the company is required by law to retain the user's information for a certain period. However, data necessary for other users to use the service normally and data that the company is legally obligated to retain will not be deleted.

Article 29: Relationship Between Linked Services and Sub-Linked Services

1. When an upper service and a lower service are linked via hyperlink (e.g., hyperlinks may include text, images, animations, various advertisements, etc.), the former is referred to as the linking service (website), and the latter is referred to as the sub-linked service (website).

2. If it is clearly stated on the initial screen of the linking service or in a pop-up at the time of linking that the linking service does not bear warranty responsibilities for transactions conducted with the services provided independently by the sub-linked service, then the linking service does not assume liability for such transactions.
 3. The company's terms and privacy policies do not apply to sub-linked services outside of the company's official site. Users must check the terms and privacy policies of the respective sub-linked services for their use and purchase of services. The company shall not be liable for any consequences arising from failing to do so.

Article 30: Terms of Use for Individual Services

1. If the company provides separate services related to the provision of services, it may establish terms and policies for those services. These may be implemented on the individual pages of each service as notifications and shall be regarded as the “terms and policies” stipulated in this article regardless of their form or name.
 2. When the company sets terms and policies for individual services as per the preceding paragraph, users must undergo a consent process the first time they use the service or the terms must be presented in a way that allows the user to confirm adequately, with the terms for individual services taking precedence over these terms.

Article 31: Limitation of Liability

The company does not make any agreements or guarantees regarding matters not specified in these terms. However, this does not apply in cases where intent or gross negligence of the company or its employees or agents is recognized.

Article 32: Compensation for Damages

1. The company shall compensate the member for damages incurred due to the company's intent or negligence in accordance with these terms and relevant laws. However, the company shall not be liable for the following damages occurring without the company's intent or negligence. Furthermore, the company shall not be liable for indirect damages, special damages, consequential damages, punitive damages, and exemplary damages within the legally permissible limits:

 5. Damages arising from a third party obstructing transmission to or from the company's server.

6. Damages arising from a third party transmitting or distributing malicious programs.

 8. Damages suffered by a user or a third party as stated in Article 10, Paragraph 1.
 9. Other damages arising from reasons not attributable to the company's intent or negligence.
2. The company has no obligation to intervene in disputes arising between users or between users and third parties facilitated by the service, and it shall not be liable for damages resulting from such disputes.
